Executive summary

I specialize in executive communications, research-driven thought leadership, and translating complex, regulated subject matter into clear, high-impact narratives. Proven ability to partner with senior leaders and subject-matter experts to shape credible, audience-ready messaging across internal and external channels.

Career highlights

- Built and led Jackson's modern content marketing function, producing research-backed thought leadership and multi-channel campaigns that expanded reach, engagement, and visibility of flagship research initiatives.
- Lead writer for Jackson's thought leadership partnership with Boston College's Center for Retirement Research, winner of a Ragan PR Daily Award.
- Developed the award-winning "Is 100 the New 70?" campaign, earning a Gold Stevie Award.
- Secured consistent placement of executive thought leadership across major industry and consumer outlets.
- Pitched and edited 13 published columns in Kiplinger's Personal Finance.
- Collaborated with retirement scholars including Moshe Milevsky and Wade Pfau.
- Contributed to GTM theme development using proprietary market-listening insights.
